

Cancer Survivorship: The PCP's Role

Description

This 45-minute e-learning course explores topics related to cancer survivorship and discusses important themes for primary care providers who are overseeing the care of cancer survivors. This program incorporates educational aspects for health care professionals as well as meaningful resources to improve patient care as it is provided to those with an active or past cancer diagnosis. The information presented is appropriate for nurses, physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, and other office staff.

Quality Insights is working to increase awareness of cancer survivorship care through physician practice engagement. We collaborate with practices to provide education and resources to enable practitioners to improve their patient care, specifically for the cancer survivor population. This project, which includes the development of this course, is provided in partnership with the Delaware Division of Public Health.

After completing this course, the learner will be able to:

- Define who qualifies as a "Cancer Survivor."
- Explain survivorship care guidelines.
- Identify two (2) tools that can be used to measure patient distress.
- Describe two (2) ways providers can help caregivers avoid burnout.

Course Requirements

To receive your certificate of course completion, participants must:

Watch the online presentation

Pass a final knowledge check with a score of 80% or better

Complete an evaluation